

I am against any deregulation of the media. There are already far too few owners/distributors of media. We need more diversity, not less, so that voices from all types of people can be heard.